Shown in Oklahoma.

A LL roads led to the Tulsa County fair yesterday. From early morning until late in the night the huge amphitheater formed by the circle of exhibit buildings was a seething continent of care-free humanity, while in the buildings themselves line on line of Oklahoma citizens trudged along abreast with the yield of a bountiful nature, products of the farm and dairy, displays of woman's craft, manufacturer's art and man and nature's handiwork. It was estimated by officials at the second day's session came to a close that at least ten thousand persons had filed through the gates.

And each and every person who attended during the day departed tired but contentedly satisfied. They saw a most versatile fair. No matter what the temperament, disposition or character, there was something to please. Every sense could be satisfied. The smell of the vendors' wares and the fresh farm products, the sound of the brass instruments and the laughter of excited children, the flutter of flags and of bunting, the tacked collectively olfactory, auditory and gustatory organs and resulted in satisfaction.

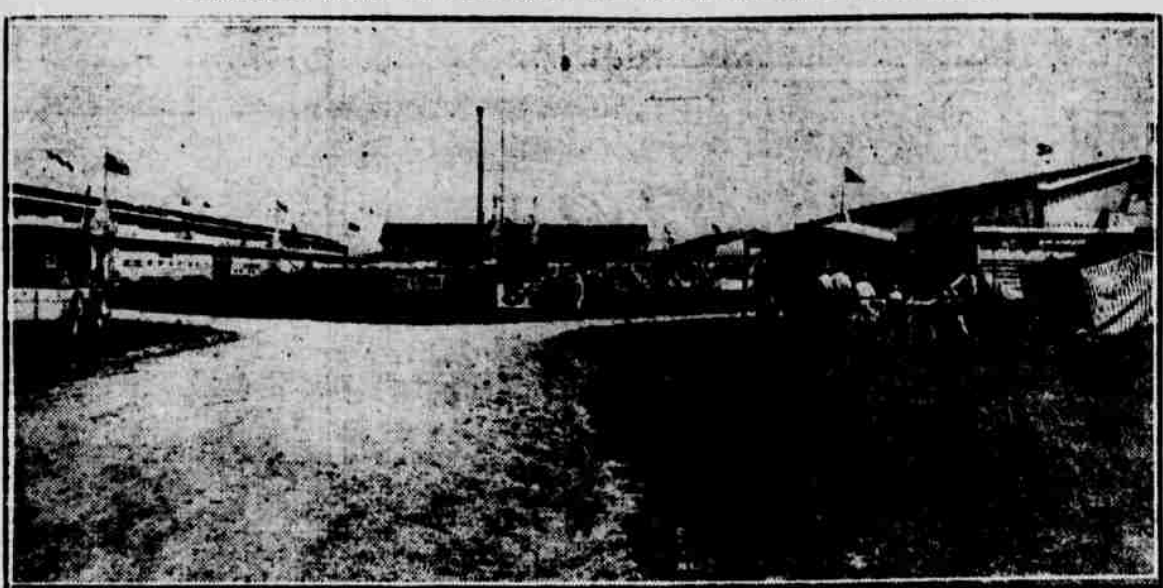

Was Live Stock Day.
First and foremost place was given live stock during the day. It was the day of the humble farm animal, and Oklahoma's best, yet the cream of the south, vied for blue, red and white prizes. Men who have followed the trail of the fair for years and years were willing to declare that no similar exhibit in this section would produce such a marvelous collection of cattle, horses, swine and sheep as were confined in the three buildings to the left of the main drive ways.

The work of judging live stock and awarding prizes was carried out all during the day and well into the night and it was entirely impossible for judges to give out a complete list of those owners whose animals were successful contestants. The visiting laymen who made only a cursory examination of the animals found little difference in the sleek, well-groomed and fed horses, the well-bred and fat cattle, the prize-winning swine and the prize-winning sheep.

Among the horses on exhibition, the draft species was the cynosure of all eyes. The Percheron draft stock of E. A. Van Maitre, including French and Friesian, owned by J. L. Pringle, were the aristocrats in their class. W. S. Lewis showed a stable of five gaited saddle horses and officials say he is intending to exhibit them again as a nucleus of the fair. The Tulsa fairing fashion week late in October. F. P. Zabinski had on exhibition his three famous race horses, Sultan, Doctor D and Black Hawk.

FLYWHEEL TOPPLES KILLING WORKMAN

Frank Sybrant, in Hoisting
a Pump, Did Not Secure Proper Place for Block.

Frank Sybrant, 25 years old, and employed at the Patton Bros. warehouse, was instantly killed yesterday morning when two flywheels, weighing about 2,500 pounds, fell on his head while he was attempting to hoist a gas engine onto a platform.

Dr. E. Forrest Hayden was called and said that he had been called for more than an hour. His head was crushed and his neck broken. Witnesses, who testified before the inquest held in the afternoon in the court of Justice Lee Daniel, said that Sybrant had attached a chain and pulley to the flywheel and was attempting to raise a pump by means of a jack when the wheel fell from the platform on which they were resting and caught him.

The coroner's jury returned a verdict in which they found Sybrant met his death by being caught by the heavy wheels and attached no blame to anyone other than the victim. Sybrant's father said that his son had $20 in his possession when he left home yesterday morning but a search of his clothing revealed only 2 cents.

The victim was unmarried and made his home with his parents at 415 West Eleventh street. He is survived by his parents, two brothers and three sisters. His employers and fellow workmen declared he was an exemplary young man and had been in the employ of the concern for the past four years.

Campbell said that when a company called for increased pay, they presented the managers the latter declined to grant the request. Then the strike began. The calling of the state board, it was hoped, would pave the way for a settlement of the trouble.

GERMANS FAIL TO DRIVE OUT FRENCH WEDGE

In Two Days Fighting

HEAVY FIGHTING IN MACEDONIA

As Usual, Heavy Artillery
Duels Continue Along
Verdun Sector.

THE FRENCH north to Peronne are holding tenaciously to the salient they have driven into the German line east of the Bethune-Peronne road near Bouchavesnes. They hold intact two Bouchavesnes and other points along the line captured in the offensive started Tuesday. Their capture of a powerful organized German trench system south of the Le Priez farm near the running west from Rancourt to Combles has further jeopardized Combles. Finding that the French had cut their line of communication from Peronne northward, the Germans threw violent attacks against L'Abbe wood and Hill 76, south of Bouchavesnes, and retook both places. The French, however, returned vigorously to the attack and after hard fighting, some hand-to-hand, finally drove out the Germans and kept the ground they had won.

In the two days' fighting more than twenty-three hundred Germans were taken prisoner and a large number of guns and machine guns were captured. On the British Somme front the situation remains unchanged. South of the Somme heavy artillery duels between the French and Germans continue near Germanvillers and Chaunoy. Repulse of a German attack near Fleury, in the Verdun sector, is reported by Paris.

Heavy fighting continues all along the Macedonian front, but no important changes are reported. The Italians have joined in the fray west of the Vardar river. Near Lake Rutovo Rome declares they have driven Bulgarian detachments in the purpose of the Dohrn-Hissar Dohrn road. The Bulgarians say, however, that the Italians were dispersed here with a loss of thirty men captured.

Germans Join Austrians.
The British across the Struma river, south of Lake Takino, have made no effort to reinforce and in that region there are no developments. In the Dobruja region of Rumania the central powers are going on with their operations methodically. The Germans have joined the Austrians near Hermannstadt and south-east of Hostings in fighting the invading Rumanians.

Petrograd says the Russians are holding all the ground they have won in the region.
German aeroplanes sank a Russian torpedo boat destroyer in the Gulf of Tige and attacked Russian naval forces in the Black sea off Constantinople. Besides the destroyer sunk several other hits were observed in both the attacks, Berlin says.

BABER MURDER CASE POSTPONED BY JUDGE

Defendant is Being Held in Pawhuska
Jail For Part in Another Shooting.

After having been set for trial in numerous times, the case of the state against William J. Baber, charged with the murder of two United States marshals, was stricken from the special original assignment now being tried by Judge George C. Crump yesterday morning. Baber's trial had been set for Monday, September 18, and both the prosecution and defense were prepared to proceed.

The action of striking the case from this calendar was brought about by Baber's arrest here Tuesday on a charge of being an accomplice in the murder of John Kennedy, who was shot and killed by "Bud" Nelson at a dance in Osage county six months ago.

Baber is now held without bond in the Osage county jail at Pawhuska and it is for that reason that his trial here has been postponed. It has been set on many dockets, but for one reason or another has never been tried since the first trial shortly after the two officers were shot, when a mistrial resulted.

Attorney H. B. Martin, representing Baber, appeared in district court yesterday morning and filed a motion asking a continuance on the ground that the first trial had required 22 days time to complete and further that the defendant is now held without bail for murder in Osage county.

GERARD IS IN BAD WITH GERMAN PRESS

IS QUOTED AS SAYING HE COULD NOT UNDERSTAND SUBMA-RINE POLICY.

Ambassador Replies He Never Heard of Man He is Supposed to Have Contradicted.

BERLIN, Sept. 13.—(X-Press, via London, 5:55 p. m.)—The American ambassador, James W. Gerard, again is under fire in a section of the German press, this time for a remark attributed to him regarding a speech made recently by Dr. Gustav Stresemann, national liberal member of the Reichstag, advocating among other things a resumption of the submarine warfare.

Ambassador Gerard is quoted as saying that he did not understand how the representatives of districts for Stresemann's speech, and certainly never made any public utterance of the nature attributed to him. His attitude on the submarine issues, he declares, is based on pro-American, not pro-British, motives.

The national liberal press agency in a communication to the newspaper that the ambassador to ask for what is termed "uncontradicted intervention in a purely German question" and says that the ambassador's remark is characterized by that "naive presumption which believes that the decision affecting Germany's political future will be dictated by Germany's American export interests."

The American ambassador in reply says that he never heard of Doctor Stresemann's speech, and certainly never made any public utterance of the nature attributed to him. His attitude on the submarine issues, he declares, is based on pro-American, not pro-British, motives.

MAY HAVE POLICE TO GUARD BORDER

Commission Discusses Plans

icans From the U. S.

BLISS HEARS TROUBLE

Peace Conference Gives
Time to Talking Latest
Decree, Pro and Con.

NEW LONDON, Conn., Sept. 13.—Suggestions as to what methods shall be employed to establish peace on the Mexican border were submitted today to Gen. Tasker H. Bliss, U. S. A., by the American members of the American-Mexican joint commission.

The officers' opinions were sought on subjects ranging from the withdrawal of American troops from Mexico to the possibility of creating an international police to guard the border. No conclusion, however, was reached and the commissioners will continue tomorrow their conference with General Bliss.

Talk Tatters.
The joint commission dealt today wholly with questions raised by taxation and customs duties estimated at $100,000,000 which affect American-controlled mining properties in Mexico, an exhaustive study of the situation was begun. The Mexican commissioners explained in detail the purpose of the decrees, insisting that they were designed to promote the mining industry, not drive out American capital and confiscate its holdings.

In their conference with General Bliss the American commissioners took under consideration the advisability of proposing such a system of border patrol that a part of the Mexican troops now engaged in this duty would be released for the pursuit of bandits at a distance from the line. They considered also the attitude of Americans living along the border as reported by General Bliss and obtained from that officer estimates as to the number of soldiers necessary to put into effect any of the plans suggested. Discussing the wider aspects of the commission's work, Secretary Lane said tonight it was probably early in the history of international bodies in that it was going into all that concerned the life of a nation, its economic problems, its political struggles and every phase of government.

Some Not to Be Settled.
It was possible, he said, that no conclusions would be reached as to many of the things discussed. He added, however, that the Mexicans would have knowledge of the views held in the United States as a result of the deliberations, while the American commissioners were gaining a wide knowledge of conditions below the border.

Even the international responsibilities of Mexico were being talked over, Mr. Lane said, and it was necessary that all these things should be considered in order that an enduring peace might be brought about in the distressed republic.

Reverse Diaz Setup.
A statement issued tonight said that the complaints of American mining interests in Mexico had led to the present investigation. In explaining the decrease complained of, the Mexican commissioners pointed out the statement asserted, that one of the main purposes which the Carranza government had in view was to prevent speculative and unproductive monopolization of mining lands by individuals and companies. The Carranza government, it was said, virtually has reversed the system in operation during the Diaz regime.

FAIRBANKS' TRIBUTE TO TULSA

"The best blooded, most energetic and most patriotic people of all parts of America have sought this land of promise, as the swallows seek the southland, and God Almighty has enriched this country so bountifully that pay in the adjoining booth, while the inspiration and loyal service of her citizenship to make it still more great and wonderful. I believe that Oklahoma's three million will in time be multiplied millions and that in Tulsa in a few years from now your population will be double 75,000." From speech by Hon. Charles Warren Fairbanks before Tulsa Rotary club yesterday.

OUR nation has enjoyed prosperity in spite of the Democratic administration," said Charles Warren Fairbanks of Indiana, Republican candidate for vice-president, in an address to twenty-five hundred Tulsans on the Central school grounds yesterday morning at 11 o'clock.

"The Democratic tariff and their principles of government have never brought about anything but disaster," he declared. "I am sure that other people look at the prosperity enjoyed by this country during the administrations of McKinley, Roosevelt and Taft."

He declared that had it not been for the European war, the United States would have long since been in the throes of another "Cleveland panic."

"When the great war ends," Mr. Fairbanks said, "American industry will face the keenest competition in history. We will come out victorious and then enter upon an era of prosperity that we have never before dreamed of. Only one thing can prevent the fulfillment of this prophecy and that is another Democratic victory."

In spite of the fact that he was speaking in a community that has always been "gone Democratic" in national elections, Mr. Fairbanks was liberally applauded. In spite of the unfavorable hour a splendid audience turned out. He spoke from the forenoon of an automobile on the north side of the school building. Persons eager to catch a glimpse of him lined the windows of eight and ten-story buildings just across the street, and this spread out over the city.

Amazed at Growth.
"Today I saw handsome homes on sites that were corn fields when I was here before," he declared.

Mr. Fairbanks arrived here from Oklahoma City at 7 o'clock yesterday morning. He was taken to Hotel Tulsa for breakfast. Arthur Geissler, Republican state chairman, and J. J. McGraw, national committeeman for this state, were among the distinguished guests.

At 10 o'clock a public reception was held in Hotel Tulsa. Mr. Fairbanks stood at the foot of the stairway and shook hands for nearly an hour. The lobby was filled with sightseers. Many women were present. A Chandler of Vista, nominee for congress, stood in line with the distinguished guest, as did A. A. Small, chairman of the local reception committee.

At the school grounds Mr. Small introduced Mr. Chandler, who in turn presented the speaker of the day. In his opening remarks Mr. Fairbanks declared that he appreciated the honor of having been "introduced by your next representative in congress, and the crowd cheered the remark heartily.

At 11:30 o'clock he was escorted directly across the street to the large symposium of the Y. M. C. A. building, where the Tulsa Rotary club had arranged for two hundred guests. The "sym" was decorated with American flags.

Is a Rotarian.
Mr. Fairbanks entered heartily into the spirit of the meeting, and sprung a surprise by announcing that he was a member of the Indianapolis Rotary club. Rotarian John S. Dayvenor introduced C. R. Rogers, late of Indiana, who in turn introduced Mr. Fairbanks. Never touching on politics, except "in the broader sense," as he put it, Mr. Fairbanks gave a masterful discourse for nearly an hour. The two hundred men present represented every business and profession in the city of Tulsa, and they gave him close attention. His talk was interspersed with many jocular remarks and many pointed sallies toward Bird McGuire and others, who sat close to him. He convinced his audience that he is not the "fictile" that many have pictured him. He is just a dignified, scholarly, good-natured American citizen with a real desire to be of service to his nation.

On account of the fact that he had to leave for Ellet at 12:30 o'clock Mr. Fairbanks was forced to begin his address before any of the Rotarians and
